Reminiscences

From an opened attic window of the house next door we hear:

"I want to spend all my days Near you . . ."

"Oh, mother, what a laugh the gang would get from that old record!"

"Why, Janie, when I was a senior in high school, that song was the rage. It simply swept the country."

"R. H. S. must have been quite different then."

"No, it was very much the same as it is today. Of course, after nearly twenty-five years some things have changed."

"Jeepers, but your high school life must have been dull."

"I should say it was far from being dull. We entered the ninth grade with an unusually small class. There is no doubt, though, that we were among the greenest of freshmen. We were eager to get to know everyone and were quite active in the clubs, war bond drives, plays, and Field Day.

"When the fall of 1945 rolled around we were overjoyed to lose the jinx of being a freshman to become a sophomore. That year, a girl from our class was selected as the 'Snow Queen' in the annual beauty pageant. The football team of R. H. S. had always been among the best and 1945 was no exception. The team marched on victoriously to win the championship.

"I don't think I shall ever forget that spring day when President Roosevelt died. There were tears in the eyes of almost all of us that sunny morning as we paid tribute to the nation's lost leader. Only a short time later we were jubilant in our celebration of V-E Day, and everyone felt that the days of the Great War were almost ended.

"The world was again at peace when we climbed the eleventh rung of the school ladder to become juniors. Our class now had leaders in every organization and again the winner of the beauty pageant was a member of our class. For the Junior-Senior Banquet, we became perfect ladies and gentlemen and had the time of our lives. Almost before anyone realized it, the year was gone. Carrying the traditional daisy chain, we donned our most serious expressions to usher out into the busy world the largest senior class in the history of Reidsville High School.

"There were many parties and dances on our social calendar. Our favorites were the barn dances, spring formals, and the dances after the football games. Janie, I met your dad at one of those dances. You should have seen us doing the jitterbug!"

"Gee, I'll bet you were a scream!"

"Well, in spite of our frivolities, we became seniors at last. Everyone was proud of the RENOCAHI, our yearbook, published by a hard-working annual staff. With great care, the president of the Student Council, and the May Queen were selected from the senior class. Once again the winner of the beauty pageant was a member of our class.

"All too soon our high school life came to an abrupt end. On the night of graduation there was a lump in my throat as I realized that it was all over. I knew that from then on I would only be a visitor at good old R. H. S., not one of the laughing students hurrying to class just before the bell."

"Mother, I've changed my mind about your school life being dull. You know, I believe you had almost as much fun in R. H. S. as we have today."

The Stars of The Future

We build the ladder by which we climb.
Four rungs have been finished thus far.
We have been rewarded for our well-spent time,
And for our work we gain a star.

The stars we receive send forth the light
To guide us to the very top.
They will be a warning to tell us that
Until the job is done we cannot stop.

Come, each of you seniors, and grab a star;
Journey with your find toward the sun.
Add to the ladder that will be your life;
Hesitate only when your building is done.

Revelations

*"In the sweet June days,
The teacher and the scholar trust
Their parting feet to separate ways."*

—J. GREENLEAF WHITTIER

It so happened that it was decreed that the revelations of the class of 1948 were to be given unto the hands of a great prophet. A cry of lamentation arose from this sage ere the Spirit of Prophecy descended to envelop his soul with mystic powers.

But behold! The Spirit of Prophecy pointed to the wise one and bade him reveal unto the young men and women the things which he did behold.

The prosperous city of Reidsville lay expectant beneath the June sunshine of the year 1958. Many people were gathering in the stadium near the grounds of Reidsville High School to have a part in the first reunion of the class of 1948. An outdoor theater had been constructed in the stadium in order to present a pageant commemorating the schooldays of the 1948 graduating class.

"How many years have passed since this fine class has graduated?" asked the chairman of the Board.

"Oh, ten long years, sir, but we are expecting a large representation here today," replied Denny Aldridge, the mayor of the city.

Before the pageant begins, let us mingle with the crowd to see if we know everyone. Who are those two lovely women attracting so much attention? Why, they are Jackie Hooper and Ella Mae Moricle, two of John Powers' most alluring models.

Look who just arrived! It is George Smith, a very efficient State Highway Patrolman. He is escorting his sister, Peggy Smith.

James Curran, prominent New York lawyer, is "talking politics" with Billy Wilkerson and Dud Apple, local doctors. James travels by airplane now, since Jimmy Law, Donald Pegram, and Charles Trent operate one of the safest airway lines.

Glancing over the program, I notice that Anne Craddock and Dot Griffin have the roles of The Spirits of the Class of 1948. Their co-stars, The Aspirations of the Class of 1948, are "Spud" Stanfield and "Mike" Delapp.

Also, I see the program credits Wesley Doggett and Walton Williams, radio technicians, as producing the sound effects and "Buddy" Grogan, the lighting effects. They have been sent down from New York.

Anne Williams, Billy Giles, Bobby Collins, and Jean Gray DeLancey designed the settings, and Darvl Lee Williams was the costume designer. Jane Gardner, Mitchy Adams, and Nancy Dixon devised the make-up for the actors. These three make-up artists are specialists in beauty treatments.

Speaking of cosmeticians, Edna Earle Manley and Clyde Trent have a beauty shop of their own. Betsy Ross and Barbara Brande are their capable assistants.

Who is that with playboy "Pot" Burton? Oh no! It just couldn't be! Manton Oliver and Ronald Smith, multi-millionaires! They are escorting their secretaries, Mary Ellen Ware, Marie Watkins, and Juanita McKinney.

There is Billy Vaughn, one of the best business men in Reidsville. His secretaries, Jean Trent and Dot Alverson, are being escorted to the play by Frank Hall and Preston Simmons, local service station operators.

I read that Emma Walker and Nancy Turner were the head nurses in Johns Hopkins Hospital. I hope that they might be able to attend this play. Billy Wilkins is the head of the Penn Memorial Hospital here in Reidsville.

The program states that the ushers are those men interested in professional sports; namely, Bobby Jones, Tommy Comer, Walter Vawter, Gene Booker, and Mike Stiers. Their internationally known coach is Ray Williams.

Outside the stadium, Richard Gunn is directing traffic as only a policeman could, and Russell Smith is rushing his taxis around the streets to get everybody here on time.

Here come Melba Teasley, Joanne Dixon, Frances Collins, Dot Pearson, Geraldine Burgess, and Adylene McKinney, the social-minded leaders of Reidsville.

Richard Gentry is talking with Donald Griffin, James Baker, Edmund Seay, Charles Inman, and Clarence Byrd, all of whom are engineers.

Harvey Rudd and George Huffines have constructed a new theater. They have employed Leroy Pegram as chief carpenter. Their enterprise has not interfered with the business of their competitor, Paul Wray.

Well, the navy has crashed the show! Yes, Arthur Gammons, an old veteran of the navy, is trying to find a scat.

Who are those trio-pianists in the orchestra pit? Of course, who else but Victoria Gardner, Mary Frances Gunter, and Millard McDonald, nationally-known virtuosos.

Robert City and Ellen Walker are still "steady dates," I see. I wonder if they have married?

At last, here come the teachers from Reidsville High—Lois Hooper, home economics teacher; Sue Pike, English; Marion Ward, mathematics; and Henry Brown, agriculture.

There is the signal for the pageant to begin; the music has changed to the strains of "Here's to Reidsville High School, faithful and bold;" the lights have darkened and the curtain has risen.

MILLARD McDONALD, Prophet

Last Will and Testament

The class of 1948 of Reidsville High School during four happy years has been endowed with numerous assets and beloved memories. With these precious memories behind us and a glorious future before us, we do bequeath and devise all our worldly goods to the following beneficiaries:

Article I. To Reidsville High School we leave our sincere gratitude for the high standards it has maintained. We hope the school will make our comrades as happy during their stay here as it has made us.

Article II. To Mr. E. C. Anderson, our beloved principal, we leave our appreciation for his patience and understanding.

Article III. Upon the entire faculty, we bestow praise for having been so patient and tireless in their attempts to give us a better education.

Article IV. We extend our sincere thanks to Miss Kate Conley for making our annual a reality.

Article V. To Mrs. Montgomery, we dedicate our annual.

Article VI. To the junior class, we leave the many responsibilities that come with being a senior.

Article VII. To the entire student body, we leave our best wishes for a happy school career.

Article VIII. To the students of Reidsville High School, we leave the following:

Section 1. Denny Aldridge wills his witty remarks to Sonny Talley.

Section 3. The good looks of Walton Williams and Dud Apple are left to Craig Blackburn and Swain Hamlet.

Section 4. The blonde hair of Edna Earle Manley and Dorothy Alverson is bestowed upon Marilyn Dixon and Carolyn Abell with reminder that they brush it each night.

Section 5. The girlish figures of Frances Collins and Betsy Ross are left to Joanne Cox and Ann Fetzer.

Section 6. To some deserving characters, Ray Williams, Donald Griffin, Charles Inman, and Michael Stiers leave their quiet simplicity.

Section 7. Melba Teslev, Joanne Dixon, and Nancy Dixon leave their "knack" of loafing to Dot Wilkins, Betty Simmons, and Edna Wilson.

Section 8. To Billy Womack, the height of James Baker and George Huffines is bestowed.

Section 9. Richard Gunn and Marie Watkins just leave—period!!

Section 10. The all round athletic ability of Tommy Comer, Donald Pegram, and Bobby Jones is bequeathed to Tommy Hopkins, Jimmy Jones, and David Jones.

Section 11. The pleasing dispositions of Ella Mae Moricle, Peggy Smith, Lois Hooper, and Geraldine Burgess are willed to Maggie Sue Durham, Rachel Carlisle, Barbara Giles, and Barbara McKinney.

Section 12. The quiet ways of Henry Brown, George Smith, Russell Smith, and Buddy Grogan are left to anyone who wishes to impress the teacher.

Section 13. Jane and Victoria Gardner leave their sisterly arguments to all students thus related.

Section 14. David Stanfield leaves his love for cheerleaders to Pete Chaney.

Section 15. Dot Pearson bequeaths her rosy cheeks to anyone who drinks plenty of milk and eats plenty of spinach.

Section 16. Frank Hall and Billy Wilkins take their love for old cars with them.

Section 17. The quiet dispositions of Adylene McKinney, Juanita McKinney, Nancy Turner, and Emma Walker are bestowed upon Betty Gwynn Moore, Billie Ann Adams, Barbara Pritchett, and Anita Corum.

Section 18. Preston Simmons' ability to "knock out the boogie woogie" is left to Billy Crutchfield.

Section 19. Gene Booker and Leroy Pegram will their places in the F. F. A. Class to Arlon McKinney and Billy Walker.

Section 20. To "Sheenie" Peters and Tom Martin, Claude Burton and Charles Trent leave their worn path to Leaksville.

Section 21. Upon Barbara Kruse, the scholastic record of Jean DeLancey is bestowed.

Section 22. Robert City's interest on the Burlington Road is left to Bobby Pritchett—provided he stays within the city limits.

Section 23. The friendship of Jean Trent, Marion Ward, and Daryl Lee Williams is left to Ann Trent, Esmin Ware, and Dot Wilson.

Section 24. Bobby Collins and Billy Vaughn bequeath their love for W. C. to all boys that might have an interest there.

Section 25. To some poor fellows, Mike DeLapn and Clarence Byrd leave their "worn out" seats in College Algebra class with the hope that they will not need them as long as they did.

Section 26. To anyone fortunate enough to possess it, Mary Ellen Ware wills her sudden interest in Draper.

Section 27. Billy Wilkerson's numerous bowties are left to James Gunn.

Section 28. The beauty and charm of Sue Pike are bestowed upon Marianne Mobley.

Section 29. Edmund Seay leaves the Supply Store to anyone who needs an excuse for being late.

Section 30. Jackie Hooper and Ellen Walker will their sweet dispositions to Marie Moose and Joan Ratcliffe.

Section 31. To some befitting persons, Harvey Rudd and Millard McDonald will their places in the drug stores.

Section 32. To Peggy Pettigrew and Mary Aldridge is left the "flirty" ways of "Mitchy" Adams and Barbara Brande.

Section 33. To some extremely intelligent person Wesley Doggett leaves his algebra book.

Section 34. Arthur Gammons wills his love for the navy to anyone who desires it.

Section 36. Billy Giles leaves his ability to draw (girls) to "Coot" Hooper.

Section 37. To Wilbur Clark, Walter Vawter leaves his place in the "ping pong" room.

Section 38. The simple charm of Dot Griffin is left to "Lib" Small.

Section 39. To any future typing student, Manton Oliver gladly leaves the parts of his typewriter that he doesn't carry in his pocket.

Section 40. Jimmie Law wills to "Red" Garrison his becoming carrot-top.

Section 41. Mary Frances Gunter bequeaths her abundance of tardy excuses to anyone who loves the bed as well as she does.

Section 42. Richard Gentry bequeaths to some unlucky person his ability to ask so many questions.

Section 43. The absence excuses of Ronald Smith are left to all who "run out" of them.

Section 44. The quiet dispositions of James Curran, Paul Wray and Clyde Trent are willed to James Martin and Betty Griffin.

Any beneficiary attempting to nullify or interfere with the provisions of this document shall be deprived of his rights and shall be sentenced to hard labor washing the walls of this school.

Hereunto have I set my hand and seal.

ADVICE TO JUNIORS

We, the Senior Class of 1948, are about to take our departure from this school. Members of the Junior Class, you will assume the duties and responsibilities which we have so faithfully performed. We cannot leave the portals of this school without giving you this earnest advice.

Even though we have not made full use of our many talents such as art, music, and dramatics, we wish to bestow upon you juniors the ability to rise to greater achievements. We trust that you may derive great satisfaction in so doing.

Considering the many hours we have spent on school subjects, it is hard to see how we have found time for our nightly visits to "Short's." Of course, sometime during the night, our cars always seemed to run out of gas at those particular places our students visited. We would advise you to remain at home and not to indulge in as many social functions. We think that you should concentrate upon your school work.

We wish to inform you that in order to uphold the high scholastic standards and to satisfy these peculiar teachers, you will have a strenuous task ahead of you. We sympathize with you wholeheartedly.

We find it hard to visualize the athletic teams of next year for our twenty-four percent of great athletes will be absent. We wish you luck for you will certainly need it.

Indeed, it will be hard to find the good manners of this class equaled by any other. Sufficient proof will be found by questioning our teachers.

For the past four years our heads have been so rapidly swelling with the accumulation of knowledge that we must soon part from Reidsville High School. We hope that this advice will improve such talents as you may possess so that our high school may not sink into oblivion.
